

- I baked a huge cake this morning, and the kids scoffed the lot.
- The cooking instructions say bake it for half an hour.
- Kelly's mom always used to bake the best cookies.
- Nowadays, I bake my own bread rather than buy it.
- My mother liked to bake.

Children suffering from the illness had bathed in sea water contaminated by sewage.

- Don't be so cheeky!
- Our solicitors have advised that the costs could be enormous.
- You have to go to college for a lot of years if you want to be a doctor.
- Come along - we don't want to be late!
- Oranges, lemons, limes and grapefruit are types of citrus fruit.
 - I can't bear this stifling humidity.
 - I can't bear it when someone starts ramming their views down your throat.
 - "I can't bear to see good victuals wasted," said Martha.
 - My mother couldn't bear waste - she always made us eat everything on our plates.
 - I put my hands over my eyes because I couldn't bear to watch.
- The Nationalists were narrowly beaten in the election.
- He beat me fair and square (= without cheating).
- They were beaten hands down (= completely) by their opponents.
- She has beaten her own record of three minutes ten seconds.
- Of the four million people who have become vegetarians in Britain, nearly two-thirds are women.
- When did you become a US citizen?
- People can become infected after eating raw or undercooked meat.
- He started his working life as an engineer but later became a teacher.
- Prince Juan Carlos of Spain became king in 1975.
- There are more and more homeless people begging on the streets these days.
- She had to beg for money and food for her children.

- He begged a loan from his boss.
- The audience was becoming restless as they waited for the performance to begin.
- You will begin to feel sleepy as the drug enters your bloodstream.
- She cleared her throat nervously before she began to speak.
- I can't conceive how anyone could behave so cruelly.
- Small children often behave aggressively.
- I'm ashamed to be seen with you when you behave so badly!
- Let's stay calm and try to behave like responsible adults.
- I'd never behave like that in public.
- He claims to have met the president, but I don't believe him.
- I still believe that people are fundamentally good.
- I don't believe that story for a moment.
- It's hard to believe there's anything wrong with him - he looks so healthy.
- I don't believe they should have put him in prison. It isn't right.
- Although she's new to the school, we'd like her to feel that she belongs.
- I think these cups belong in the other cupboard.
- This is a gentleman's club - women don't belong here.
- In those days they felt that children belonged in the nursery and out of sight.
- Dirty boots do not belong on the table, now do they?
- Light rays bend as they pass from air to water.
- You'll snap that ruler if you bend it too far.
- the point where the road bends
- His new trousers ripped when he bent down.
- I bent down and picked up the coins lying on the road.
- On the face of it, it seems like a bargain, but I bet there are hidden costs.
- I bet that computer knocked you back a few thousand.

- "I bet you can't eat all that food on your plate." "Is that a challenge?"
- I bet you can't guess how old he is.
- I bet she wishes (that) she'd never got involved in the whole affair.
- He had been bound and gagged and left in a cell for three days.
- He found a length of frayed rope and used it to bind the man's hands and legs.
- We tore up some material and bound up the wound as tight as we could.
- The manuscript has been bound in gold and silver and encrusted with jewels.
- I mustn't bite my nails.
- You can stroke the dog if you like, it won't bite.
- He bit me so hard that it drew blood.
- We were bitten by mosquitoes almost every night.
- When he bit into his apple, his tooth came out.
- To play the recorder, blow gently into the mouthpiece.
- A light wind was blowing.
- The storm uprooted trees and blew fences down.
- Strong winds blew the ship ashore.
- The referee blew his whistle for half-time.
- As water begins to boil, bubbles rise ever faster to the surface.
- To make a thicker sauce, reduce the ingredients by boiling for five minutes.
- Water boils at 212° Fahrenheit and 100° Celsius/Centigrade.
- Stir the sauce gently until it begins to boil.
- Can I borrow a couple of bucks?
- Do you have a Birmingham to London train timetable that I could borrow?
- You have to sign books out when you borrow them from the library.
- He's a bit possessive about his CDs - I wouldn't dare ask to borrow them.

- Just because I'm lending you my dress for tonight doesn't mean you can borrow it whenever you want to.
- He wasn't even trying to score - the ball just bounced off the jammy beggar's head into the goal.
- He thought the ball had bounced on the line, but the umpire said it was out.
- Martha threw back the covers and bounced out of bed.
- He bounced into the office, full of the joys of spring.
- One of the boys stood there, bouncing a basketball.
- They bowed deferentially as she came into the room.
- The children bowed their heads in shame.
- The Princess, visibly moved, kept her head bowed during the ceremony.
- They had to bow to the Prince.
- She bowed down before the King.
- Take an egg and break it into the bowl.
- I've broken my leg, but the doctor says that it's a clean break, so it should heal easily.
- If you force the zip, it'll break.
- Things got a little wild at the party and three windows were broken.
- His mother scolded him for breaking her favourite vase.
- While the animals are still immature, they do not breed.
- The map on the opposite page shows where these birds commonly breed.
- She breeds pedigree Burmese cats.
- Animals bred in captivity would probably not survive if they were released into the wild.
- At this time of year the birds return to the island to breed.
- It took them two hours to bring the fire under control.
- Diplomacy has so far failed to bring an end to the fighting.
- Few observers believe that the treaty will bring a lasting peace to the region.

- It's nice to be able to bring a smile to people's faces .
- December brought some seasonable snow showers.
- She is to host a new half-hour show which will be broadcast every weekday evening.
- The military junta has today broadcast an appeal for calm.
- The interview will be broadcast during prime time.
- Television camera crews broadcast the event all round the world.
- Since the controversial programme was broadcast, the BBC's mailbag has been bulging.
- I try not to broadcast my personal feelings on the matter.
- He chose not to broadcast that they had met before.
- Why would you stand up at a family event and broadcast your sexual proclivities to everyone?
- The most common mistake is to broadcast too much seed producing such a heavy crop that the grasses are smothered.
- We want to buy a plot of land to build a house.
- There are plans to build a hotel on the most northerly point of the island.
- We've had to build some cupboards to give us more storage space.
- They're building a new bridge across the river.
- He gathered some wood to build a fire.
- She ripped up his letters and burned the pieces.
- We carted all the rubbish to the bottom of the garden and burned it.
- A fierce fire is still raging through the forest, burning everything in its path .
- She had a red mark on her arm where she'd burned herself.
- If the animals have died from a notifiable disease, their bodies must be burned.
- The whole town flooded when the river burst its banks.
- The bag burst and the apples fell out.
- She pricked the balloon with a pin and it burst with a loud bang.

- The pipe burst and water was spraying everywhere.
- He was driving along the motorway when his tyre burst.
- I'll buy some paperbacks at the airport.
- We stopped at some nearby shops to buy some food.
- They took out a £40,000 mortgage to buy the house.
- I bought a cheese roll for lunch.
- She buys all the latest fashion magazines.